

If you are thinking about coaching as a Principal or as leader within your school you need to be able to be comfortable with at least two of these aspects.

Leader/Learner

As the leader of learning do you aspire to learn?

Aside from any immediate, practical application, do you enjoy learning for learning's sake?

Reflective practitioner

As the leader are you reflective of your practice?

Do you have a growth mindset towards your leadership?

Challenger

As the leader are you inspired by challenge?

Can you tolerate feeling uncomfortable at times to break through to better results for your staff and students.

Confront reality

As the leader are you able to compare your reality against someone else's reality?

Can you find balance between your strengths and weaknesses as a leader?

Are you

coachable
